

https://www.yoursun.com/englewood/community_news_briefs/a-little-music-in-the-park/article_f377edf6-2ecd-11e9-8395-0b51d795315f.html

A little music in the park

SUN PHOTOS BY SANDY MACYS Feb 14, 2019

Kurt Acton plays his banjo.

SUN PHOTOS BY SANDY MACYS

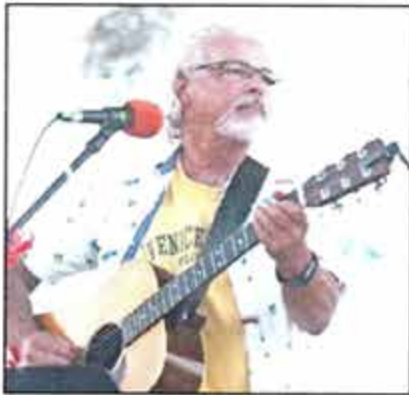

The Englewood Open Studio presented its free open mic program Englewood Community Showcase on Sundays at Pioneer Park, on the 300 block of Dearborn Street, Englewood on Sunday. Musicians came out to play, and music lovers brought their lawn chairs, food and beverages, and listened.

The Open Studio's open mic nights 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays at Mango Bistro, 301 W. Dearborn St. Call 941-681-8188 for more information.

A little music in the park

The Englewood Open Studio presented its free open mic program Englewood Community Showcase on Sundays at Pioneer Park, on the 300 block of Dearborn Street, Englewood on Sunday. Musicians came out to play, and music lovers brought their lawn chairs, food and beverages, and listened.

The Open Studio's open mic nights 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays at Mango Bistro, 301 W. Dearborn St. Call 941-681-8188 for more information.

Andy Proctor performs at the Dearborn Street Plaza Sunday at the Open Studio's Englewood Community Showcase on Sunday.

Todd Tracy operates the sound system.

Connie Smoot of Smoot Cee's Confections of Englewood sells her sweet treats at the Open Studio's Englewood Community Showcase.

Randy Emmons tunes his guitar.

Visitors and locals enjoy the show.

Kurt Acton plays his banjo.

SUN PHOTOS BY SANDY MACYS

Shelley Sullivan, left, and Evelyn Rossi enjoy the performances.